

A Locking Device With Extending Functions

Abstract

The present invention is related to the locking device with extending functions, a body of the locking device can optionally connect different additive members, such as an article with a hanging hole, a timer, a compass, a thermal meter, etc.